STANDING INNOVATION

The accessory that makes the difference.

■ Workshop of ideas

For more than 30 years, our Company is a work-shop of ideas. Our constant challenge isn't just to create the best products, but one-of-a-kind products. In order to reach this objective, we never start off with that which exists, but instead with that which as of yet no one has thought of.

■ Elegance & simplicity

A simple solution requires a complex project and therefore a lot of research. For this reason Euromet invests a significant portion of its sales in the development of products that, besides being "original", must possess the quality of being quickly and easily installed as well as elegant.

■ Functional creativity

Until ideas can become solutions, they need to be realizable. Euromet utilises a process of total integration between creative engineering and productive technology in such a manner that even the most "fantastic" idea becomes a functional product.

■ "Made in Italy"

We represent the typical Italian values of creativity and productive capacity. However just to invent and then produce is no longer sufficient in today's market; for this reason, Euromet, has created a model for distribution along with post-sales assistance coherent with the high quality of our products... 100% engineered, developed and produced in Italy.

■ Time to market

The unresolved needs of our clients are what stimulates us to respond in a timely way with focused project development. Some call this marketing, for us it is our daily mission.

■ + Quality over time

Euromet's quality is certified, but the real value of the quality of its products isn't measurable, time is the measure. The precise reliability of our products endure well beyond the user's needs. This is a direct result of a long process in which quality issues aren't addressed during product development, but quality issues are avoided altogether by intelligent and experienced engineering.
